

Mitchell NAGS™

Mitchell has its roots in data and technology. We wholly own National Auto Glass Specifications (NAGS), the only provider of aftermarket glass parts, installation materials, labor and benchmark pricing. As publisher and distributor of NAGS data, our vested interest comes from accurately deriving the price of aftermarket glass, with no incentive to see that price rise or fall.

Keeping with our core competency, Mitchell and NAGS are uniquely positioned as the most efficient providers of both the NAGS database and the technology platform necessary to deliver that data. Mitchell eliminates the need for carriers to implement the database into third-party systems by releasing updates as they are available.

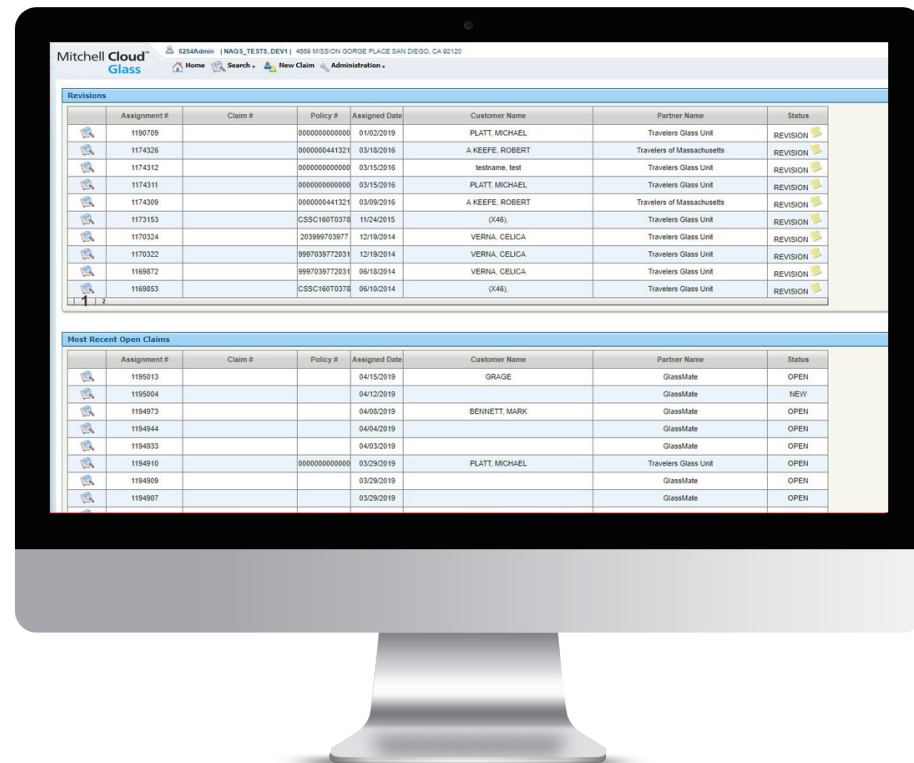

With our deep data repository of historical information, Mitchell can provide analytical and benchmarking services that enable you to fully understand what is happening in your business relative to the market.
