Workers' Comp

A Virtual Silver Lining: The Pandemic's Boost to Telemedicine

January 7, 2022
1 MIN READ

While some of the pandemic-induced restrictions on everyday life will eventually recede along with the virus, some changes are likely to linger. More of us will keep working from home. We'll likely continue washing our hands more frequently, and many of us expect to keep using face masks. For workers' compensation cases, it's reasonable to expect that the increased use of telemedicine for triage and speedy treatment will remain. Telemedicine has been around for years, but it was slow to catch on for many reasons:

Continue reading.

©2022 Enlyte Group, LLC.

mitchell | genex | coventry