Workers' Comp

WC Magazine: Putting Out Fires

March 19, 2018
1 MIN READ

In the aftermath of a mass casualty incident (MCI), the workers' compensation industry is reminded of the importance of preparation. To minimize exposure, it is vital for employers and carriers to proactively develop a disaster response recovery plan (DRP), and have supplemental clinical resources at the ready to assist all stakeholders in navigating the medical system.

In this recent WC Magazine article, Laney Bond offers a framework to help facilitate improved results from the workers' compensation perspective.

Read here.

WC Magazine: Putting Out Fires

©2022 Enlyte Group, LLC.

mitchell | genex | coventry