Senior Vice President, Product Management & Development

In his article, "Medication Management: A Growing Problem Requiring a Collaborative Effort," Ron Skrocki, Senior Vice President at Genex Services, addresses the persistent issue of opioid misuse in workers' compensation. He advocates for an integrated approach to medication management, emphasizing the need for collaboration among employers, adjusters, providers, and pharmacy benefit managers. Skrocki highlights that breaking down silos and utilizing data analytics can lead to more effective interventions, improved patient outcomes, and reduced claim costs.?
